

Progressive and Resilient Through Change

Corporate Plan 2024-26

Foreword

This revised Corporate Plan responds to the significantly changed and challenging environment in which the social housing sector is operating.

These challenges include the volatile political environment, significant financial pressures - including increased interest rates and the continued impact of capping rent increases in 2023/24 - increasing regulatory oversight and a greater need than ever to invest in our homes and communities for the future.

As a group of charities, we remain focused on our principal responsibilities and priorities, so our key corporate objectives remain unchanged; Homes, Lives and Communities, and Business Resilience.

However, the competing financial pressures we are experiencing have resulted in a considered review of our future capacity, priorities and achievable ambitions.

This Corporate Plan is intended to deliver what customers want and is, therefore, focused on investment in our assets and delivery of new integrated IT systems. It remains true to the sector's core purpose; to provide much needed, affordable, safe, well-maintained homes and to support those in our communities in the greatest need. For our customers and Board members, this commitment includes the continued development of new homes, in response to the enormous housing need present in our area of operation.

To deliver this plan, we must work closely with our customers, invest in and support our staff and invest our resources wisely. At the same time, we must remember that we are a perpetuity business and all our choices must ensure our future resilience, whilst addressing today's priorities.

This revised Corporate Plan is structured to build on the Group's solid performance and growth, whilst modernising our ways of working and responding to the challenges being felt across our sector.

The continued and significant investment into our homes and communities is key to ensuring both their condition and suitability, now and in the future, as well retaining our focus on building safety.

The development of new homes continues to be recognised by HPG as core to achieving our vision and meeting our purpose.
